

CATCH-22

An artist used a hyper-sexualized alter ego to expose Instagram's double standard

By Sangeeta Singh-Kurtz December 12, 2018

Much of the art at Scope, a contemporary art fair that took place alongside last week's Art Basel Miami Beach, spoke directly to a certain stereotypical millennial experience. There were large-format oil paintings of La Croix sparkling water cans and giant ceramic sculptures of Xanax bars. An exhibit called Young Thug as Paintings—which originated as a meme that places photos of the rapper against works of fine art—was especially popular with the highfalutin art crowd.

Read the full article here: <https://qz.com/quartz/1489270/leah-schrager-exhibit-exposes-sexist-double-standard-on-instagram/>